Yao or Not

It's amazing how quickly the Houston Rockets offseason transformed from an expected ho-hum summer to non-stop interest. Clearly, winning the number 1 pick in the NBA Draft has that effect on teams. Especially when the number one selection in the Draft is expected to be a 7-foot, five inch basketball player from China. Yes, China. Yao Ming, "Come on down! You're the number one choice of the Houston Rockets! Welcome to the NBA and welcome to the city of Houston!" Of course, Yao becoming a Rocket is yet to be decided; and, I for one don't believe the Rockets should choose Yao.

From all indications, Yao is a very talented basketball player. He can shoot with range; run the floor well for a "person of his size" (What does that actually mean? Who knows how a 7'5 person is supposed to run?) Yao has good lower body strength; and, the fact he weighs 296 pounds is viewed as very positive because Yao won't be a "stick" coming into the league. However, Yao is not expected to have an immediate impact on the league or his new team in his rookie season; so, why would the Rockets want to draft a player who will simply prolon league team in July or in training camp in early October. Yao has a commitment to the Chinese National Team for the World Champion g their time out of the NBA Playoffs for a fourth consecutive season? The Rockets basketball people have to answer that question.

In addition to that dilemma, Rockets' management also has other problems to consider in deciding whether or not to select Yao with the top pick: whichever team selects Yao, probably won't have him to participate with its summer-ships in Indianapolis during late August and early September, and is supposed to be with the Chinese practicing in July during the summer leagues. He is also obligated to play for the Chinese in the Asian Games in late September. The Chinese could reserve the right to call Yao back if need be at any time during the season, although that would seem unlikely. Yao's contract is more of a concern for him than the team that selects him. Yao is a product of the Chinese government of sport and 50 percent of his salary would go to the governing body and his club team the Shanghai Sharks. The remaining 50 percent would be divided among Yao and those who helped him get to this point.

Drafting Yao would definitely increase ticket sales for the Rockets' home games as well as make the Houston Rockets a team of global interest. Media credentials from throughout the world will be requested to see Yao play. While the team may not be playoff bound in 2002 - 2003, interest in the team would be sky high. If the Rockets' management truly believes adding Yao to the mix along with good team health (for a change) means a playoff berth next season, then, the team's decision is an easy one. However, I don't believe Yao will have an immediate pact on the court for at least two years because he will be entering completely "uncharted waters" in the NBA which will require him to become a more physical ball player. I don't doubt Yao will be a good NBA player; but, it's unfortunate for Rockets' fans this isn't 2003 because Houston's owning the top pick in the 2003 Draft would mean one thing: high school kid LeBron James would be a Rocket. End of discussion. Case closed.

NBA State of the Team Address

(thru May 25th)

Atlanta Hawks: .

Summary: The Hawks bad season can be summarized with this: miss the playoffs (again); but, because of a previous trade with the Clippers, no pick (8th overall) in the first round.

Boston Celtics:

Summary: The Cs disposed of the Detroit Pistons because Kenny Anderson dominated Detroit's point guards. Role players like Eric Williams and Tony Delk stepped up to score key baskets, too. Paul Pierce and Antoine Walker only had one breakout game versus the Detroit. Facing New Jersey in the Eastern Conference Finals puts a definite strain on Boston's transition defense. Memo to Kenny Anderson: Jason Kidd is not Chucky Atkins or Damon Jones. However, give the Cs tremendous credit for coming from 21 points down after three quarters and defeating the New Jersey Nets in game 3 of the Conference Finals.

Charlotte Hornets:

Summary: Jamal Mashburn was unable to play in the postseason due to illness and injury. Consequently, Charlotte didn't have enough offensive firepower to compete with the Nets in the second round of the playoffs. Now, the Hornets move to New Orleans until reality slaps the front office across the face and forces the team to move again in a few short years.

Chicago Bulls: .

Summary: The Bulls own the second overall pick in the Draft. G Jay Williams is the most likely choice for the Bulls because of his tremendous skills as well as the Bulls tremendous need for a point guard. Chicago may entertain trade offers for the pick; but, it's seems highly unlikely the Bulls trade the pick.

Cleveland Cavaliers:

Summary: Since this is not 2003, coach John Lucas can only watch high school phenom LeBron James in workouts against NBA players instead of figuring out how to obtain LeBron in the Draft. Cleveland needs to keep G Andre Miller in the fold in order to have any hope of winning next season.

Dallas Mavericks:

Summary: The Mavs lack of defense and lack of low post offense cost them dearly in their elimination from the playoffs. Sacramento took full advantage of every opportunity the Mavs offered. Since Dallas' season is now over, let's see if the Michael Finley trade rumors hold any truth.

Denver Nuggets:

Summary: The Nuggets hope to hire a head coach before next month's NBA Draft. The team has so many holes to fill; hiring a new coach will just be step one in the long rebuilding process.

Detroit Pistons: .

Summary: After defeating the Toronto Raptors in the first round of the Eastern Conference playoffs, the Pistons were eliminated in 5 games by the Celtics.

Head coach Rick Carlisle has to take a lot of blame for his team's poor offensive showing versus Boston. Instead of finding a way to use Jon Barry's offense, Carlisle opted to sit Barry on the bench because of his poor defense versus Paul Pierce. Detroit failed to score more than 81 points in games 2 through 5 in the series. Detroit must upgrade the point guard position in the off-season.

Golden St. Warriors: .

Summary: The Warriors have made no secret about their desire to have Jay Williams on their team. Unfortunately for the Warriors, Williams will be gone by the time the Warriors have a chance to make a pick. Golden State owns the third pick; and, Williams is projected to go top 2. Consequently, unless the Warriors can pull off a trade, they will once again select "the best available athlete".

Houston Rockets: .

Summary: Lady Luck smiled on the Rockets as Houston won the NBA Lottery. The Rockets own the top overall pick in next month's NBA Draft which means Houston can choose any player they want at number 1. All signs point to Houston selecting Yao Ming; however, many questions have to be answered before Houston finalizes their choice on June 26.

Indiana Pacers:

Summary: The Pacers lost a thrilling five-game first round series to the New Jersey Nets. Reggie Miller was the most consistent performer for the Pacers throughout the series. Jermaine O'Neal did not perform well in his first playoffs with significant minutes. Indiana is still a very young club with a very bright future.

LA Clippers: .

Summary: The Clippers own the 8th and the 12th overall pick in next month's Draft. Since Clippers' owner Donald Sterling is known for his frugality, logic says the team will use both selections and draft 2 rookies with cheaper salaries as opposed to paying current veteran players like C Michael Olowokandi and F Lamar Odom big time money. The Clips have tremendous flexibility to improve the team; however, Sterling will probably stunt the team's growth once again.

LA Lakers:

Summary: Disposing the Blazers and the Spurs in the first two rounds was fairly easy for the Lakers for one simple reason: LA owns a psychological edge over their opponents. The Sacramento Kings have broken through that mental wall to take a 2 to 1 series lead in the conference finals; and, in the process, have shown the Lakers' role players to be the key to defeating LA. If the non-stars don't play well, it doesn't matter how many points Shaq and Kobe score because the

NBA State of the Team Address

(thru May 25th)

Lakers won't win. Period.

Memphis Grizzlies:

Summary: The Grizzlies have already made one of the best moves of the off-season: hiring Jerry West as President of Basketball Operations. West is in charge of personnel and placing the Grizzlies on the winning track. While his task is difficult, Mr. West can definitely get the job done because of his keen basketball sense.

Miami Heat:

Summary: Miami owns the 10th pick in the first round of the Draft and, because, the team has such a need for another scorer, Pat Riley's decision should be obvious. However, don't be shocked when Pat selects a defensive specialist.

Milwaukee Bucks:

Summary: The Bucks own the 13th pick in the Draft which means little except the pick reminds Bucks' fans the team missed the playoffs. Milwaukee has to fix team chemistry on and off the court; so, the draft pick could be used in a trade.

Minnesota Timberwolves:

Summary: Minnesota lost in the first round of the playoffs for the sixth straight season. Kevin Garnett was once again blamed for the first round flop. The Timberwolves have to figure out a way to improve the personnel or the criticisms will continue and get worse.

New Jersey Nets:

Summary: The Nets were enjoying a glorious playoff run until they made history.

After defeating Indiana in 5 games in the first round; and beating Charlotte in the second round, the Nets headed to Boston tied 1-1 in the Eastern Conference Finals. New Jersey led Boston by 21 points heading into the fourth quarter of game 3; then, proceeded to watch the Cs drop 43 points on them to establish the largest 4th quarter comeback in NBA Playoffs history. If the team recovers from that collapse to win the series, kudos to Byron Scott and his coaching staff.

New York Knicks:

Summary: The Knicks own the 7th pick in the first round which is of little help to the club. New York needs immediate help which the 7th pick won't provide. Trades are necessary; however, NY lacks tradeable assets.

Orlando Magic:

Summary: Tracy McGrady may be one of the best players in the league; but, he can't defeat the Charlotte Hornets with a sore bad back and by himself. Orlando needs a healthy Grant next season in order to make the 2002 - 2003 season more than just the "Get Tim Duncan in the summer of 2003" watch.

Philadelphia 76ers:

Summary: Allen Iverson needs to become more of a leader. Period. He has to set the example in the locker room, on the practice court, and, in the games. Philly has to acquire more offensive weapons and stop relying on Iverson jacking up 35 shots per game.

Phoenix Suns:

Summary: The Suns have the 9th and the 22nd pick in the Draft; so, perhaps the team can use the picks to make themselves better instead of improving teams in the Eastern Conference like Phoenix did this past season: Detroit, Clifford Robinson; New Jersey, Jason Kidd; Boston, Rodney Rogers and Tony Delk.

Portland Trailblazers:

Summary: The Blazers just don't have the mental capacity to win in the playoffs. Players need to grow up and play as a team instead of griping about lack of minutes and poor officiating. Maturing from within could solve many of the problems; but, who is going to wait for Rasheed Wallace and Bonzi Wells to mature?

Sacramento Kings:

Summary: The Kings have won at Utah; at Dallas; and at LA in the post-season. Sacto leads the Lakers 2 games to 1 in the conference finals thanks to Mike Bibby's impressive play; Bobby Jackson's incredible quickness; and, a growth and maturity by the entire team following the game 1 home loss to the Lakers. The Kings have more talent from 1 to 12 than the Lakers; however, Sacramento has to continue playing like a team in order to eliminate the two-time defending champions. Chris Webber may prefer taking prime-ter shots; however, as long as he doesn't pick up stupid fouls and technicals, I don't care. C-Webb has to lead his team by example; and, that involves keeping his composure at all times.

San Antonio Spurs:

Summary: The Spurs flameout versus the Lakers confirmed a few things: 1-Tim Duncan can't win by himself and 2-the rest of the Spurs are scared of the Lakers. David Robinson has announced he will retire after next season.

Seattle Superonics:

Summary: The Sonics lost to the Spurs in 5 games in the first round. Rashard Lewis wants to receive the maximum salary on a new contract. He doesn't deserve it; but, Seattle has to determine what they will offer. Vin Baker has said he doesn't want to leave Seattle; however, he may not get his wish.

Toronto Raptors:

Summary: Playing Detroit a tough 5 game series in the first round showed a few things: Dell Curry can still shoot; the Raptors need Vince Carter; and, Keon Clark must be re-signed. However, it's unlikely all three of those players will be Raptors next season.

Utah Jazz:

Summary: Surprisingly Utah didn't get swept by the Sacramento Kings in the first round of the playoffs. The Jazz lost in 4 games to the Kings. Utah lost games 3 and 4 at home after splitting the first two games at Sacramento. John Stockton has not yet announced if he will return for another season; however, the team is trying to get 2001 first round draft pick Raul Lopez out of his contract in order to play for Utah in the fall. Talks are ongoing with Raul's club team: Real Madrid.

Washington Wizards: Summary: The Wizards have the 11th pick in the first round; and, all indications point to the Wiz looking to select a scoring small forward in order to add more offense to the club. However, until Michael Jordan announces his future plans, drafting a small forward could be a moot point because if MJ decides to play another season, the draft pick won't see any much needed game action which will allow him to improve his game.

NBA News and Notes

Nets' Thorn Named Top Executive

May 21, New Jersey Nets President and General Manager Rod Thorn, who engineered the deal that brought Jason Kidd to New Jersey and propelled the Nets to the Eastern Conference Finals, on Tuesday was named The Sporting News NBA Executive of the Year.

Thorn, who came to the Nets two years ago after 14 years as the NBA's Executive Vice President, Basketball Operations, received 26 of 43 votes in balloting by team executives. Detroit Pistons President of Basketball Operations Joe Dumars was second with nine votes and Sacramento Kings President, Basketball Operations Geoff Petrie was third with three votes.

In one season, the Nets improved from a 26-56 mark to a 52-30 record, the best finish in the East and the best performance by the team since joining the NBA in 1976. Among Thorn's other acquisitions was a three-for-one deal with Houston on draft night that brought first-round selections Richard Jefferson, Jason Collins and Brandon Armstrong for first-round pick Eddie Griffin. Thorn also signed center Todd MacCulloch as a free agent.

"This is an honor I will cherish," Thorn told The Sporting News. "To be singled out by your peers makes me feel really good."

Houston Area Colleges: Spring Signings

Prairie View Announces Three Signings

May 15, Prairie View A&M head coach Jerome Francis announced the signing of three basketball players to National Letters of Intent: two high school players, Gary Hamilton and Dashon Harper, and one junior college player, Kevin Cooper.

Hamilton, a 6-9 power forward from Dorsey High School in Los Angeles, Calif., was nominated for the McDonald's All-American High School Basketball Team. He was named to the Los Angeles Times Central City All-Region Team, averaging 17 points, 15 rebounds and 4 blocks per game. Gary chose Prairie View over Oregon State, Long Beach State and USC.

A 5-11 guard from Ready High School in Columbus, Ohio, Harper was selected District III player of the year in Ohio and named District III first team two years running. In his senior season, he averaged 23.1 points, 3 assists and 3.5 steals per game while shooting 50 per cent beyond the 3-point arch. Dashon chose PV over Miami-Ohio, Coppin State and Duquesne.

Cooper, a 6-3 JUCO guard from Lee College, chose Prairie View over Georgia State, Texas-Pan American and Centenary. He received region 14 honorable mention honors and averaged 15 points, 4 rebounds, 3 assists and 3 steals per game.

Texas Southern Signs El Paso Star

April 24, Texas Southern University men's head coach Ronnie Courtney announced the signing of Sean Walker from Parkland HS in El Paso.

Sean is a 6'2 scoring guard; and he averaged a city-high 28 points per game last season on a Parkland team that won an area-round playoff game for the first time in its history. Besides his All-City MVP selection, Walker was also voted the District 1-5A MVP and was a first-team all-state selection.

Lady Owls Sign Los Angeles Standout

April 24, Lady Owls head coach Cristy McKinney announced that Amber Cunningham has signed a national letter of intent to join Rice in the fall.

Cunningham is a 5'10 guard from Pilgrim HS in Los Angeles. She was a four-time CIF Southern Section player of the year in Division 5A and helped lead Pilgrim High to the 2002 CIF-SS Division 5A crown and the state regional finals.

"We're excited about Amber," said McKinney. "We think she's kind of an unknown in some degrees to a lot of people, and we think we found one that can come in here and do some things next year."

In addition to her CIF-SS player of the year honors, Cunningham was also the Heritage League MVP and the Los Angeles Times Central City Player of the Year. During her senior season, she was nominated for McDonald's All-American status.

Owls Sign Texas 3A Player of the Year

April 22, Rice Owls men's basketball coach Willis Wilson announced the fourth (and final) signing to the men's basketball team. Joining the Owls next season will be J.R. Harrison, a 6-foot-6 forward from Gainesville, Texas, who was named the 3A Player of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers' Association.

Harrison helped Gainesville High School defend its No. 1 state ranking by leading the team to the 2002 Texas 3A championship. He was named MVP of the state championship game by scoring 16 points, grabbing 11 rebounds, passing out six assists and blocking three shots. For the season Harrison led the Leopards to a 29-6 record by averaging 19.0 points, 9.5 rebounds and 2.5 blocks per game. In addition to all-state and multiple all-district accolades, Harrison was named the MVP of the state tournament as a junior in 2001 after leading Gainesville to the semi-finals.

"J.R. completes what I believe is an excellent recruiting class, coach Wilson said. "Athleticism has been a theme in our recruiting efforts the last few years and J.R. fits that mold. What we've been looking for is athleticism to go inside and outside, and he's another guy who can give that to us.

"By combining this class with the terrific class we had last year, we are definitely making major progress on the recruiting front for the program."

Signings (Fall and Spring)

J. R. Harrison	G 6'6	Gainesville, TX
Jamaal Moore	G-F 6'5	Moberley, MO
Alex Spotts	G 6'5	Lexington, SC
Mike Kinsella	C 7'0	Rochester, MN

WNBA State of the Team Address

(As of May 24th)

Charlotte Sting

Summary: The Sting look to build on last season's strong run to the WNBA Finals. All the key players from last season are back this season. Rookie G Sheila Lambert won't be healthy until the middle of the season.

Cleveland Rockers

Summary: Star guard Helen Darling will miss the season after giving birth to triplets. As a result, Jennifer Rizzotti, Tricia Bader, and rookie point guard Brandi McCain will have to do a good job of running the team. Big things are expected from second-year F Penny Taylor.

Detroit Shock

Summary: Detroit selected F Swin Cash with the second overall pick in the 2002 Draft. Cash is a winner; and, she's a very talented player. Coach Gregg Williams will use Swin at small forward in order to maximize his team's lone strength: their front court. Unfortunately, Detroit lacks a good point guard who can effectively run the offense.

Houston Comets

Summary: The Comets welcome back F Sheryl Swoopes this season. This Comets' roster is the most talented team in history; however, the team has one big question: who will run the point? Coquese Washington is the lone "true point guard" on the roster; and, she must be more aggressive on offense and defense in order for Houston to win title number 5.

Indiana Fever

Summary: Indiana acquired G Nikki McCray in the off-season; but, the best news for the Fever is the return of last year's first round draft choice Tamika Catchings. Catchings missed all of last season because of a torn ACL (she tore it twice). Catchings is 100%; and, she is indeed the complete basketball package. Head coach Nell Fortner wants her club to force tempo; and run the opposition into the ground.

Los Angeles Sparks

Summary: The defending champions may be the most arrogant team in the league; but, they have the talent to back up their confident talk. Head coach Michael Cooper has thrown out the challenge to his club to finish the regular season undefeated (32-0) this summer. LA acquired rookie point guard Nikki Teasley and guard Sophia Witherspoon from Portland in exchange for veteran point guard Ukari Figgs.

Miami Sol

Summary: Miami has great team balance: Debbie Black and Sheri Sam in the backcourt plus, Ruth Riley and Marlies Askamp up front. Rookie guard Iziame Castro Marques has a huge upside. While it still remains a possibility, it appears unlikely F Elena Baranova will play for Miami this season. Her native country (Russia) wants her to stay home and prepare for the World Championships.

Minnesota Lynx

Summary: With a healthy Betty Lennox teaming with Svetlana Abrosimova and Katie Smith, Minnesota should have little trouble scoring points. However, the team's lack of rebounding could still be a problem. Rookie F Tamika Williams is expected to help on the boards.

New York Liberty

Summary: The Liberty's core players are still in tact which may or may not be a good thing. The team still lacks a back up point guard for Theresa Weatherspoon; and Tari Phillips will continue getting beaten up by bigger front court players. Despite obvious weaknesses, the Liberty should still manage to make the playoffs (again) because of great team defense.

Orlando Miracle

Summary: New head coach Dee Brown takes over for Carolyn Peck; and, Dee has brought an NBA philosophy to the club. Orlando is much more aggressive on defense than in previous years. Shannon Johnson, Nykesha Sales, and Taj McWilliams - Franklin form one of the best trios in the WNBA.

Phoenix Mercury

Summary: Phoenix starts the season with injuries to Brandy Reed and Tracy Reid. However, a bigger blow to the club was the decision by C Maria Stepanova to return to Russia and miss the 2002 season. Stepanova was a key front court player for Phoenix.

Portland Fire

Summary: Acquiring Ukari Figgs from LA should get Jackie Stiles easier shots at shooting guard. Jackie is not yet 100% from off-season wrist surgery; but, while recovering from surgery, Jackie became a much better all-around player instead of simply being a scorer.

Sacramento Monarchs

Summary: G Edna Campbell was diagnosed with breast cancer during the off-season; but, Edna is hopeful to play this season following her chemotherapy treatments. As long as Yolanda Griffiths knees don't cause her to miss games, Sacramento will remain an elite team.

Seattle Storm

Summary: Number 1 pick Sue Bird will team with last year's number 1 Lauren Jackson and form the best young tandem in the WNBA. Seattle still lacks a consistent scoring threat at small forward; but, the Storm will be a much better team than last season.

Utah Starzz

Summary: G Marie Ferdinand should expand on last season's success. Utah will have to adjust to higher expectations this season for the first time. Solid team defense will be a big key the team returning to the playoffs.

Washington Mystics

Summary: Pat Summitt was hired as a consultant; and, Pat selected G Stacey Dales - Schuman and F Asjha Jones in the first round of the Draft. New coach Marianne Stanley wants the team to play more aggressive defense and create easier scoring opportunities.

TRIVIA

LAST MONTH’S QUESTION:
Which NBA player holds the NBA playoff record for consecutive 30-plus point performances at 11?

ANSWER:
Lakers forward Elgin Baylor set the record in the 1962 NBA Playoffs. Despite his accomplishment, Baylor and the Lakers lost to the Boston Celtics 110-107 in overtime Game 7 of the NBA Finals.

THIS MONTH’S QUESTION:
How many times has the team with the best chance to win the NBA Lottery actually won the Lottery?

Did You Know?
Jason Kidd of the New Jersey Nets is one of six players to achieve triple-doubles in back-to-back playoff games in the same postseason. Wilt Chamberlain recorded four consecutive triple-doubles for the Philadelphia 76ers in 1967 -- in Games 4 and 5 of the Eastern Division Finals against the Boston Celtics, and in Games 1 and 2 of the NBA Finals against the San Francisco Warriors.
